

BEER X GOLF

An Adult Diversion by Castle Bravo Games

What you need:

- A table
- A "Hole", a "Tee" and two "Trap" cards
- Some Beer (preferably bottled)
- At least 1 friend
- Probably a bucket (depending on how much you can drink)

How you start:

Find a table and declare that it is now the "Beer Golf Course." Place a "Tee" Card at one end and a "Hole" card at the other end. Two other players should then toss the "Trap" cards at the table ~ now you've got the beginnings of proper "Beer Golf Course." Before we can start, though, we have to add "Trees" (empty beer bottles.)

Everyone playing should take a beer and drink it. The cap from this will become your "Ball," keep it close and treat it well. As you finish your beer, place the bottle on the table as a "Tree." The first player to finish will take the first turn, the second will follow them (and so on?) once everyone has finished that first beer.

What you do:

On your turn, place your "ball" (beer cap) on the tee, then hit it with your finger. You can flick, push or slam the ball ~ the only rules are that you must hit the "ball" with only one finger and it has to travel away from your finger (you can't just push it where you want?) Keep shooting the "ball" until it lands on the "Hole" or you finish your current beer.

Every shot that doesn't end on the Hole causes you or someone else to take a drink of beer. If you miss the hole, but don't land on a Trap card, you take the drink. If your shot lands on a trap card, everyone else takes a drink.

If your ball leaves the table, take a drink and start over at the tee.

Whenever you finish a beer, place the bottle on the table as a new "tree," grab another beer and keep the new cap somewhere safe. You can put a new tree anywhere on the table except on any of the cards and there must be enough room between any two trees for the largest ball to pass through.

How you end:

Continue playing rounds until you run out of beer. To keep people from dying, you should limit the amount of beer you're gonna drink during the game ~ we like a total of 18 beers or 4 per person in larger groups.

Once the last beer has been opened, finish the current round and end the game.

Who wins:

You win if you have the fewest number of caps collected during play. If there is a tie, whichever tied player has the most beer remaining wins.

Other Stuff:

*Any size table can be used, even multiple tables!

*You have to ENTER a card for it to trigger. If you start on a trap, you have to leave the card and return if you want to have everyone else drink again. With proper placement of trees and skill, you can bounce back multiple times.

*Different players can play with different beverages ~ not all players have to drink beer. Try using water with any player that has to pee forfeiting.

*Do not play with hard alcohol, you will die and we will laugh at you for being stupid.

*Greetings,
I'm Professor Orangutangus
MacFlickenstein! I'm here tae teach ye wee bastards how to play a little game called...*

BEER X GOLF

Yer table ought to look a little like this, with the tee on one end, the hole on th' other, a couple o' traps in the middle, and a whole lot of bastard beer bottle trees littering up the whole mess.

You can use a variety of techniques to hit your cap towards the hole...You could simply flick yer cap straight ahead.

Or you could try flicking it up and over the obstacles in yer path, ye cheeky tit, ye.

But what ye can't do is just push your cap along like a lazy shite. That's cheating.

